THURSTON BEATS YANKEES

Warrior Registers 20th Victory of Year—Also Has Four Safe Hits.

Chicago, Sept. 14.—Hollis Thurston held the Yankees to four scattered hits today while the White Sox won their 20th victory of the season. The Yankees' defeat, however, did not change their position in the American league pennant race, as Washington bowed to Detroit.

The game started as a pitching duel, but after Bill Barrett handed the visitors the lead in the sixth inning by making a wild throw to the visiting players' dugout for what should have retired the side, the White Sox braced to retrieve the substitute's misplay. They came back strong in their half of the inning, and tied the count in the eighth. A double steal by Moss and Collins, the latter registering his first hit of the season, put the White Sox in a position to surge ahead.

Wally Pipp was the fielding star for the visitors, while Eddie Collins made three wonderful plays, starting one double play, which broke up the Yankees rally.

PRESIDENT IS HOST TO "BIG THREE"

President Coolidge relating the history of a sap bucket which was the property of his great grandfather. This bucket was presented to Mr. Ford by the President. The picture taken at the home of the President's father in Vermont, shows left to right: Mr. Firestone, the President, Mr. Ford, Mr. Edison, Mrs. Coolidge, Russell Firestone and Mr. John Coolidge, father of the President.

Washington, Sept. 14. — One of the outstanding features of the vacation trip of President Coolidge, who has just returned from a two weeks' stay at his father's farm in Vermont, was the visit of Henry Ford, Thomas A. Edison and Harvey S. Firestone.

On their annual camping trip these three geniuses of industry and invention called upon the President on an automobile tour through New England, and for several hours discussed with him various problems and conditions. All three of them assured him of their hearty support of his candidacy for election.

The chief topic of conversation was the future prosperity of the country. The three camping companions assured the President that in their opinion the continued improving prosperity of the country depended upon the condition of the farmers. Agriculture must prove profitable for America to continue prosperous, they said.

"I think times are getting better, and for sound agricultural reasons," said Mr. Ford.

Interviewed during his call upon President Coolidge, Mr. Edison said: "We'll have great prosperity if the corn does not get nipped and crops in general are good."

Mr. Firestone declared that the farmer was the keystone of American prosperity.

"Conditions in this country will continue to grow better so long as the farmer is prosperous," he said. "It is the barometer by which to judge conditions. His is the basic industry of the country, and the one upon which our prosperity depends."

After leaving the President's farm Mr. Ford, Mr. Edison and Mr. Firestone continued their tour through the Green Mountains, stopping now and then to talk with the people of rural New England and view the countryside. They spent the early part of their vacation at Mr. Ford's Wayside Inn, at South Sudbury. Before visiting the President, Mr. Ford played host to 5,000 New England farmers at his Wayside Inn estate at South Sudbury, Mass. With Mr. Edison and Mr. Firestone he supervised a plowing and agricultural demonstration and invited the Farm Bureau federation to use his grounds for its annual gatherings. On the same day the Holstein-Friesian association gathered at Mr. Firestone's old homestead in Columbiana county, Ohio, for its annual picnic, as the guests of Mr. Firestone, who sent his son, Harvey, Jr., to welcome them in his absence.

I do not know of opposition to Mr. Clarke hereabouts on the part of ministers or church people. Individuals may doubtless be found who oppose him, but I am confident there is no general movement against him. On the contrary, his neighbors are so far as I hear, enthusiastically for him.

Because of his character and ability, Mr. Clarke is a man who will be a credit to our nation as well as to our church. I do not believe any citizen reports should influence any person who wishes to do the best for his district and nation.

W. Courtland Robinson, Pastor First Presbyterian church.

FRANKLIN MAN DROWN

JOSEPH BAINES, 34 yrs. old, who was on the boat on the Champlain river, was drowned.

Fishing Outdoors, Sunday, September 14, 1934. On the Champlain river, near the mouth of the Hudson, a small boat was seen on the river, about one mile above Rockport. Sunday afternoon at about 1 o'clock, his body was recovered about two miles above Rockport. The body is at the undertaker's parlors of Fred J. Joyce, the Oneonta undertaker and furniture dealer, awaiting the completion of the funeral arrangements by the family.

Yesterday morning a friend of the unfortunate man, Barney Wallace of Walton, went to the home of Baines and suggested that they go over on the Champlain river and fish. Baines accepted and, accompanied by the latter's wife and two sons, they went to Pine Grove and rented a boat and started out fishing. The two men first went out alone. Later they returned to shore and Mrs. Baines went out with them in the boat.

Desiring to change location, Baines arose and in attempting to pull up the anchor lost his balance and fell overboard. This caused the boat to capsize, throwing both Wallace and Mrs. Baines out. Baines could swim and started for shore, according to the version given The Star and Wallace assisted in righting the boat and in getting Mrs. Baines to its side, where she could cling, and later they were assisted to shore by other fishermen.

When the two were gotten out safely, attention was turned to Baines, whom it had been supposed had reached the river's bank, as he was seen swimming within 20 feet of the water's edge. No trace of him could be found and his two sons, who were seated on the opposite bank watching the tragedy, said he had not reached shore. His body at first could not be located, and it was necessary to secure grappling hooks and two hours were required before his body was brought ashore. Drs. Lee and Young, both of Sidney, saw the body soon after it was brought to the surface and declared life extinct.

The accident occurred on the Champlain side of the river and an effort was made to secure Coroner Getman of this city. In his absence from the state, Dr. Latcher is acting for him, but he could not leave and directed Undertaker Joyce to secure Dr. Allen of Champlain, who as acting coroner decided it to be unquestionably a case of accidental drowning. Undertaker Joyce was directed to care for the body and it was removed to his parlors in Champlain, where it awaits instructions from the family.

The grief of the widow and the two sons, Joseph, aged 16, and John, aged 8 years, the two latter having watched the occurrence from the west bank, was distressing to witness. After the body was recovered, they went to their home in Champlain and the funeral arrangements will not be completed until today.

Sunday motorists in large numbers stopped at the roadside not far from the scene and soon there was a long line of cars. Sergeant W. A. Barry of Troop C at Sidney was soon at the scene and directed traffic after the body had been recovered.

Baines had occupied the farm for about three years and is of Polish birth. His age is 34 years. The wife, who was formerly Anna Polunbeck, for years a resident and well known there, having attended the Franklin school, and two sons named are the only relatives known.

FIVE TAKEN TO HOSPITAL

Accident at Emmons Cuts Every Occupant of Studebaker Sedan But All Escape Fortunately.

Five people were cut by glass, some rather severely, Saturday afternoon when, at about 2:30 o'clock, a Studebaker sedan ran into a telephone pole near the old Emmons home, on which is now situated the Hungerford gasoline station, and turned on its side. The car was almost a complete ruin, and the people who were rushed to the hospital were especially fortunate in escaping without more serious injuries.

Riding in the car were Mr. and Mrs. James Erciano and daughter, Eleanor, and two sisters of Mrs. Erciano, the Misses Helen and Hanna Ferris, all of 185 Market street, Cortland, and after being rushed to the hospital were treated by Dr. E. J. Parish.

The cuts were long, and some rather deep, but it is thought that none of the parties will be confined for any time.

The car was towed to the Wall Street garage, where it is awaiting orders from the insurance company which has the collision insurance and which will make good for the damages to the machine.

While there are several explanations advanced for the accident, it is practically certain that the car was being driven carefully and at a moderate rate of speed. There had been dug at the point where the accident occurred a deeper drainage ditch and the shoulder was very soft. It appeared that the car had slipped off the shoulder of the road and that Mr. Erciano was unable to bring it back onto the macadam because of the depth of the mud which had been thrown up as a shoulder.

Taken to Hospital Last Evening.

Mrs. Fred Hicks was removed to the Fox Memorial hospital at about midnight last evening in a delicate condition at the direction of Dr. E. J. Parish. Early this morning she was reported to be doing as well as could be expected and not to be in any critical condition.

COOLIDGE-DAWES

LINCOLN HIGHWAY CARAVAN HOLDS SPURTED MEETING AT MUNICIPAL HALL SATURDAY

RAPS LA FOLLETTE CANDIDACY

Little Town of Plymouth. Name of Calvin Coolidge, South Caravan to Plymouth to Tell of the Boyhood Friends Whom They Know No Well — Ki-Congressman Jefferies, Ballroom Address of Goshering.

The Coolidge-Dawes Lincoln tour, one unique in the history of American politics, conceived by the boyhood friends and neighbors of President Calvin Coolidge, to acquaint the country with the Calvin Coolidge they know, stopped in Oneonta Saturday at about noon and held a spirited meeting at the Municipal hall which was largely attended by representatives of the party from all sections of this vicinity. The party came to Oneonta from Binghamton and went on their way to New York city by way of Kingston, leaving New York on the Lincoln highway Tuesday for San Francisco and Seattle.

Calvin Coolidge of Plymouth.

The first speaker introduced by Chairman Dr. J. C. Smith of this city was H. L. Moore, playmate of the President back in his home town of Plymouth, Vermont, who is now a member of the Vermont House of Representatives. Mr. Moore told of the organization of the caravan by the people of Plymouth and of their idea to have the entire country know the President as he does.

He told of the town of Plymouth and traced its influence through the life of the President. Plymouth is a busy little town, situated on the road, situated on the slopes of the Green mountains whose chief industry is a little cheese plant. The neighborhood is typically American, most of the farms being occupied by descendants of those sturdy men who first settled there as did, the great-grandfather of President Coolidge, Captain John Coolidge, back in 1780.

He told of the boy playing with the students of the district school, and later of his studies at Amherst college and his location at Northampton, Mass., where he first came into prominence.

He continued with a recitation of the record for public service of President Coolidge and of his steady and important positions of the utmost importance, and finally to the oath of office as the President of the United States which he took from his father, a Justice of the Peace, early in the morning of August 3, 1923.

In urging a complete vote at the polls this fall, he said that he had left his farm in Plymouth feeling that it was his duty to tell of the early life of the President, and that it was even more clearly the duty of each citizen to register his preference with his ballot.

He closed with the "Keep cool with Coolidge" slogan of the campaign.

Jefferies Tells of LaFollette.

Ex-Congressman Jefferies of Nebraska, the man who nominated Charles G. Dawes for the vice presidency on the Republican ticket, was the other speaker with the caravan, U. S. Senator F. D. Fess, who had been with the tour having been called home.

Mr. Jefferies, after telling something of the nomination of General Dawes, explained several matters in connection with the present campaign, giving particular attention to the candidacy of LaFollette.

Another point brought out by Mr. Jefferies was that Congressmen who will support the administration should be given those seats, a point which is of especial interest in this congressional district. Mr. Jefferies stated that he had no knowledge of those conditions in this vicinity, but that if the present incumbent was of that character he should be returned without question.

"To listen to some," said Mr. Jefferies, "one might think that the country had gone to the bow-wows. But such is not so. But do we appreciate our country? Do we appreciate the foresight and acts of our fathers in drawing the document which is the safeguard of our rights, which creates and defines the powers of our courts, of congress, that our liberty may never be taken from us?"

"We have one candidate this year who is such of five or six parties, on five or six platforms, with their crying drastic recommendations for changes

SUNDAY FAIR CROWD LARGE

Midway Rapidly Filling With Amusement Features. Tents of Concessionaires—Today Estimate May.

Despite a chill air the charm of the fair grounds being made in readiness for the opening of the Oneonta fair today, could not be resisted and hundreds if not thousands made their way in one way or another to the grounds and watched the activity of the concessionaires and hawkers getting things set for the annual outdoor carnival and fair.

The midway is being rapidly filled with the usual array of riding contrivances, refreshment stands and side shows, while about the horse barns, the stalls of which are being taken hourly, the horsemen sat about in groups and told of the events of other races or of things they are going to do the present week against all contenders. Many fine appearing animals are seen and a few of them were out on the track for a little whirl just to keep them in good training.

Some cattle and sheep already have arrived but none of the exhibition buildings were open, but this morning the arrival of exhibitors will commence and there will be activity all throughout the day.

Owing to the rainy weather of the past week some of the special attractions were held over at the places they appeared for a Saturday exhibition, but it is believed that all of them will reach the grounds today and will be in readiness for acts tomorrow afternoon when Director General Dieffendorf gives the nod.

Local prognosticators of more or less doubtful skill at the job, are predicting that fair weather will prevail this week and that there will be no occasion for a postponement on a single day. If that proves correct there is little doubt that the usual large crowds will be in attendance, and that they will find that the management has arranged to give them the worth of their money and more—as always.

ANOTHER POPULAR ORCHESTRA.

Widmeyer's Orchestra Secured for Trainmen's Celebration.

The people of Oneonta and vicinity are to be given the opportunity of hearing another of the great dance orchestras which are touring the country on the evening of September 22, when the Widmeyer orchestra of Huntington, West Virginia, will appear at the Grand Dedication hall to be given at the armory by Daniel Hopkins lodge, No. 1, Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen. The lodge has established a reputation on the quality of the orchestra, which they have previously secured, and those who have the ball in charge feel that they have secured an organization whose melody, harmony, and pep are excellent and who as singers and vaudeville performers have another point for fame.

The orchestra has just finished a very successful season at Wrightville Beach, on the North Carolina coast, and a very unusual time is promised to the dance lovers of this vicinity. A number of surprise features are being arranged for the evening, and the demand for tickets, which may be secured at L. D. Slado's, Bob & Dana, Ingerham's Cigar store, and DeAngelo's barber shop is large.

Of Course You Want to Dance. And with the best music, Lynn Smith's, Firemen's dance Wednesday and Thursday at Municipal hall. advt 11.

TO RETIRE IN ONEONTA

Otto L. Fagerstrom Spent 20 Years in Army—Likes Oneonta and Its Friends

Otto L. Fagerstrom, who was recently retired from the United States army after 20 years of service, is now visiting old friends here and is planning to locate in Oneonta, which he considers a delightful little city and one in which he has many friends. While he is retiring, he is still of middle age and active and doubtless will engage in some form of endeavor. He will have the best wishes and a hearty welcome from many.

He is a frequent visitor of Sergeant Harry Diener of the local recruiting station and apparently feels lost since leaving the service. He served in the Philippines with Sergeant Diener and the two find much enjoyment in talking over old times.

He was retired from the 18th infantry at Fort Slocum as a warrant officer, and his retired pay will be $133.75. He thoroughly enjoyed the army and has recommended it to a number who have recently enlisted.

Following the reception there was a happy social hour and at 10 o'clock the guests were served a delicious supper by some of the young friends of the couple.

Mr. and Mrs. Mumford received a large number of beautiful gifts, including linen, silver, cut glass and china. The young couple have taken a newly furnished flat in the Whiteley house on River street, where they will be at home after October 1. Mr. and Mrs. Mumford will take to their new home the best wishes of a host of friends.

MRS. O. A. BENTON DEAD.

Entered Oneonta Woman Succumb After Long Illness

Mrs. O. A. Benton of 74 East street died at the family home Saturday evening, following an illness of six or seven years due to heart failure and advanced years. Private funeral services will be held from the home Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock with Rev. Dr. E. J. Farley of the First Baptist church officiating. Burial will be made at Glenwood.

Mary E. Touhey was born at Newwater, N. J., December 18, 1844, the daughter of Dennis and Mary Little Touhey. When only a young girl she removed with her parents to Binghamton, which was her home until she was united in marriage with Orville A. Benton of Franklin in 1872. At that time the couple came to Oneonta which has since been their home, and Mr. Benton engaged in the grocery business.

Later Mr. Benton started a bakery which he conducted for thirty years until retiring about eight years ago, and his wife was ever a help and encouragement in his undertaking. She was as well a devoted and loving wife and mother, and while she never joined a church, she was a Christian woman and especially interested in the work of the W. C. T. U.

To the family the sympathy of a host of friends will be extended.

To Our Loved One, Absent Forever. The following pathetic verse, received at this office Saturday, has such strong appeal that, despite the fact that it is sent anonymously, it is given space in the columns of The Star:

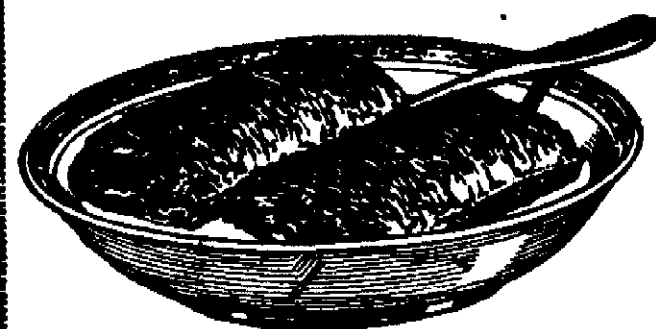

Never to see the warm sunshine,
Never to smell the sweet flowers,
Never to hear the glad birds sing
In this beautiful world of ours;
Never to see the dark shadows
Creeping o'er forest and plain,
Never to see all earth's beauties—
Never, never again!

Voice Pictures as Nerve-Cure Aid Are Tested in London

Various kinds of nervous disorders are said to be detected by the use of an instrument, invented by Prof. E. W. Scripps and tested in England, to take "pictures" of the human voice. Vibrations of tones spoken into a tube are registered in lines on a revolving drum covered with smoked paper. Persons afflicted with certain nerve diseases are said to pronounce various words in a way which produces abnormal lines on the recording mechanism, thus enabling the physician to detect their trouble.

Railroad Carries Ships Overland with Passengers and Cargoes

So that vessels may carry their passengers and cargo overland between separated bodies of water, a railway ship canal, consisting of floats, inclined planes and large, specially designed railroad flat cars, has been built in Germany. When a steamer reaches the terminal, the flat car is rolled on it down an incline into the water and shipped underneath the boat. It is then drawn up the slope and, with the ship on top, is transported to the next body of Designed in the shape of birds and animals, shades for electric lights have been introduced in England, where it is said their odd appearance has resulted in a great demand for them. Of various models, they are used on floor lamps, ceiling and wall lights.

Talking through Your Own Loud Speaker

Many radio fans are having fun talking through their own loud speakers. The trick is simple: connect the loudspeaker to the primary of the transformer of the first stage of amplification. The B-Battery being connected and the tubes properly adjusted, now, by talking into the loud speaker, the loud speaker will reproduce the sound. This is one way of making the sound of the loud speaker more powerful and have the kinks in the throat go away. The loud speaker is a simple device to make the loud sound. This is 2-1-0. ## Moving Heavy Furniture up Stairways

Pianos and other heavy objects can be moved up steep inclines, such as stairways, very easily by means of the simple device shown in the illustration. It consists of three lengths of 1 1/2-in. gaspipe, two floor flanges and two rollers, which are screwed together to form a shaft and crank. Two lengths of stout rope, one having a heavy iron ring at each end, are also provided. The rope equipped with rings is brought around the piano as shown, the rings being slipped over the shaft. Heavy pads are of course provided around the corners to protect the varnished surface. A 3/4-in. hole is drilled through the center of the shaft to receive an eyebolt, and one end of the second rope is tied to it, the other end being securely tied to some support at the top of the incline. In use, the operator moves the piano up the stairway by turning the crank. A floor flange is screwed on each end of the shaft, as

How to Test Condition of Engine and Electrical Equipment

To determine the condition of a used car, you must make a systematic examination of it.

First test out the electrical equipment. Switch on the lights and see that all lamps light. Note the condition of the reflectors and see that no lenses are broken.

With the ignition switch OFF, press in starting motor switch and keep it pressed in for 10 or 15 seconds. If the starting motor and battery are in good order the engine will be turned over briskly all the time the starter switch is pressed in. If it only turns over very slowly, the battery may be worn out or the starting motor may be in poor condition.

Now start the engine and observe the ammeter to note if the generator is charging the battery properly. The needle should swing over the "charge" when the engine is running and go back to "0" when it is stopped.

The next thing to do is to give the car a low speed and a high speed test to determine the condition of the engine. Drive to some quiet street and ask the owner to leave the engine in high gear, then throttle it down and let the car run as slowly as possible. Tell him at the same time to KEEP HIS FOOT OFF THE CLUTCH AND BRAKE PEDALS as it is a very simple matter to make any car crawl along at two miles an hour if you slip the clutch. If the engine is in good condition and properly tuned up, it will run along quite smoothly and regularly at from four to six miles an hour or about a brisk walking pace.

If the engine throttles down and pulls on high gear at a walking pace, it is fairly good evidence that it is in good condition. If, however, it WILL NOT throttle down, it may be that the carburetor is not adjusted correctly or a spark plug is misfiring. Usually, however, when a man is trying to sell you a used car he has it tuned up as well as possible so that when it refuses to pull slowly, the probability is that the engine is in poor condition and has no compression.

It is quite easy to test the compression and get a very good idea of the condition of the engine. First make certain that the ignition switch is OFF, then insert the hand crank and note the amount of resistance there is when you pull up on the handle of the hand crank. If the compression is good there will be considerable resistance felt. Pull up firmly for nearly a quarter of a turn, then let the handle spring back. See how the handle goes up and down four or five times "feeling" the compression, then pull it up a full quarter turn and get another cylinder on compression and test in the same way. The resistance you feel should be quite strong and the same on every cylinder.

If the compression is good on some cylinders but weak on others, it is possible that the cylinder walls are scored, piston rings worn or the valves are leaking. If the cylinder walls are scored or the piston rings worn, you will notice a lot of blue smoke comes out of the exhaust especially when the engine is speeded up. As a further test remove the spark plugs and examine the porcelain. If they are dry and a clean reddish brown color, the cylinder walls and piston rings are in good condition. If, however, they are covered with a soft, black, oily deposit, the probability is that the cylinder walls are worn or scored or the piston rings are worn. Of course if the owner has been keeping the level of the oil in his crankcase too high it will foul up the spark plugs, but when you find the compression in a cylinder very weak and the spark plug fouled up, you can depend on it that the cylinder is in poor condition.

Before you start to test the compression as shown above, the engine should be run for at least 10 minutes to get it warmed up.

When you see-saw the hand crank up and down, listen for worn connecting rod bearings. If the bearings are worn you will hear a distinct rap or knock every time you push down on the handle. If you hear what sounds like loose bearings, it is a good idea to leave that car alone and let someone else have the grief.

If the slow speed and compression tests are satisfactory, test the engine for acceleration. To do this leave the car in high gear and throttle down to six or seven miles an hour then suddenly open up the throttle and speed up the engine. It should accelerate instantly without the slightest hesitation and reach a speed of twenty or more miles an hour within a few seconds. There should be no noise from the engine except a gentle purr. If it knocks or clanks badly during this test, it shows there are loose bearings or pistons.

The above tests will give you a very good idea of the condition of the engine. Next week I will show you how to make an examination of the steering gear, brakes, wheels, springs, etc.

To do this leave the car in high gear and throttle down to six or seven miles an hour then suddenly open up the throttle and speed up the engine. It should accelerate instantly without the slightest hesitation and reach a speed of twenty or more miles an hour within a few seconds. There should be no noise from the engine except a gentle purr. If it knocks or clanks badly during this test, it shows there are loose bearings or pistons.

The above tests will give you a very good idea of the condition of the engine. Next week I will show you how to make an examination of the steering gear, brakes, wheels, springs, etc.

Take out spark plugs and examine the porcelain. If they are dry and a clean reddish brown color, the cylinder walls and piston rings are in good condition. If, however, they are covered with a soft, black, oily deposit, the probability is that the cylinder walls are worn or scored or the piston rings are worn.

Before you start to test the compression as shown above, the engine should be run for at least 10 minutes to get it warmed up.

When you see-saw the hand crank up and down, listen for worn connecting rod bearings. If the bearings are worn you will hear a distinct rap or knock every time you push down on the handle. If you hear what sounds like loose bearings, it is a good idea to leave that car alone and let someone else have the grief.

If the slow speed and compression tests are satisfactory, test the engine for acceleration. To do this leave the car in high gear and throttle down to six or seven miles an hour then suddenly open up the throttle and speed up the engine. It should accelerate instantly without the slightest hesitation and reach a speed of twenty or more miles an hour within a few seconds. There should be no noise from the engine except a gentle purr. DR. FRIDTJOF NANSEN
President of the League of Nations

DELEGATES from eighteen nations, meeting in Geneva, have just concluded a discussion of the political and economic situation in the Balkans and Near East. "Stable conditions have not yet been restored in any of the dozen countries in this troublesome region," declared Charles V. Vickrey, general secretary of the Near East Relief, in his presidential address, "and war is actually threatening again on a half-dozen borders."

He pointed out that the failure of armies and navies, of world wars and diplomatic conferences, were glaringly apparent. "Can practical religion, as expressed through the Golden Rule, solve the problems that have baffled world powers?" he asked. "It seems well worth trying on a much larger scale than ever before. This principle of the Golden Rule is the slogan and aim of the educational and relief work which the United States is doing throughout the Near East. One of the purposes of this international

"On this day citizens of all nations will be seated figuratively at the same table, partaking of the same food, thinking the same thoughts and entering into a new realization of the brotherhood of mankind." Dr. Fridtjof Nansen, representing the League of Nations, said: "For several years the world has been hardened by reading descriptions of human suffering and misfortune in the Near East. Our sense of proportion is becoming destroyed. Do we realize to-day the poverty, suffering and misery of the Near-eastern nations? The thing now needed above all others, to create good will and confidence between these nations, is international cooperation. This we hope to obtain through an increasing emphasis on the Golden Rule as a universal creed in international relations." Among those participating in the discussions were Dr. Charles Levermore, winner of the Nobel Peace Prize; and former Premier Venizelos of Greece.

MRS. DAULEY TELLS OF VALLEY FORGE

At Meeting of Oneonta Chapter, Daughters American Revolution.

Mrs. William R. Walrath, vice regent, and Mrs. Harry M. Goldsmith were elected delegates to the state D. A. R. conference to be held at Honesdale October 15 to 17, at the meeting of Oneonta chapter held at the residence of Mrs. B. W. Stearns at Oneonta Saturday afternoon. The attendees chosen were: Mrs. A. M. Curtis, Mrs. E. H. Potter, Mrs. W. L. Brown, Miss Jennie Fairchild, Mrs. B. W. Stearns, Miss Emma Matteson, Mrs. M. L. Mills, Mrs. Martha Strong, Mrs. Rupert W. Ford and Mrs. I. F. Foster. The meeting was the opening one of the fall season and there was a consideration of the weather prevailing, the guests numbering 60 including members and a few invited friends. The annual Year book, recently printed at the Herald office, was distributed to members. It contains much information relative to the organization, to which it is creditable. Mrs. Isaac S. Dauley gave a very interesting talk upon Valley Forge, special attention being directed to the Washington Memorial chapel which was described at length and many interesting facts gleaned in a recent visit there given. The ladies greatly enjoyed the talk of Mrs. Dauley, Miss Mary DeNio of Elmhurst sang several solos and gave a number of readings, all of which evidenced talent and versatility. Later refreshments were served by the hostess, completing a very enjoyable event.

Now on row of beautiful jars packed just what a satisfying show they make on your storehouse shelves.

But what assurance have you that your jar rubbers will safeguard them through the weeks and months to come?

Every jar rubber must do two important things if it is to make an airtight seal. It must first stretch and then it must "set."

It must stretch enough to pass easily over the neck of the jar. Too much stretch risks it of the ability to snap back into place—so that

Only if the rubber will "set" firmly can you be sure of a permanent airtight seal.

Today you can buy jar rubbers which are tested for stretch and "set" for months in its own great laboratory the United States Rubber Company worked to develop a superior jar rubber and in its "U.S." brand it offers you rubbers that meet the most rigid test.

WEEK-END AUTO ACCIDENTS

Two Cases of Collision and One of Car Overturning, All Near Schenectady—No Serious Personal Injuries.

Schenectady was the scene of at least three auto accidents, and while no fatalities resulted lives were endangered and more or less serious injuries resulted.

On Saturday afternoon about 2:30 o'clock the Durant sedan of Henry Heide, a New York city confectioner, was in collision with the Dodge touring car of F. S. Hubbard, a contractor and builder of Earlville, who was en route home from Delanson, where he is engaged in erecting a school building. The accident happened about a quarter of a mile below Schenectady. Mr. Hubbard attempted to pass a car ahead, but finding himself unable to do so, he applied his brakes suddenly, with the result that the car skidded on the wet macadam and shot across the highway into the Heide car, which was going in the opposite direction. Miss Kathryn Heide was at the wheel of that car and with her were her parents. They were enroute to Albany after a 2,000 mile trip through New England and New York state.

Mrs. and Miss Heide were removed to a private home near the scene, where Dr. Winsor attended them. The mother suffered from shock and some slight bruises and Miss Heide from minor cuts and bruises. They are reported today as improving and will doubtless soon be able to proceed to their home. Miss Heide is employed as a clerk in the office of the superintendent of schools in New York city. Mr. Hubbard escaped with little or no injuries and proceeded to his home on the 6 o'clock train. Both cars were damaged, the Heide car to the extent of about $150 and the Hubbard car about $100.

Sunday morning while Angelo Morra, an Italian resident of Schenectady, with five other people in a car with him, two men and three women, was motoring from his home to Oneonta, and driving a new Studebaker touring car, and when near the residence of Ernest Blencoe he attempted to pass another car and while so doing and while moving quite rapidly he applied his brakes and the car turned over and crashed into a big maple tree. All of the members of the party were more or less bruised and one of the men suffered a broken wrist. They were taken to the office of Dr. Winsor for surgical care. The car was damaged, but not greatly.

Friday evening about 9 o'clock a Ford touring car going toward Oneonta and occupied by four ladies, among whom was Miss Newcomb and her mother and driven by Miss Tillson, collided with a Ford coupe driven by James M. Cain of Boston, Mass., in which with him were Mrs. Cain and their two-year-old child, on the bridge over Elk creek just below the C. M. Bulson residence. After the collision the touring car slid for nearly 100 feet and then crashed into the guard rail on the south side of the highway but did not go over the bank. Fortunately no one was injured to any extent, the child having some slight bruises. The front of both cars were smashed. It is understood that the touring car is owned by Miss Newcomb's brother. It was repaired at the Curtis garage in Schenectady and the coupe was taken to the Mooney garage in Oneonta and repaired at a cost of $66.

While this bridge is none too wide, cars can pass upon it, if they are driven carefully. There is also a risk in the highway near the bridge which could well be improved for the safety of motorists.

MARRIAGE IS NEW WAY TO BEAT LAW

Wed American Citizen to Get Into United States.

Washington.—There is more than one way of evading the immigration laws. The easiest, according to the new immigration law, and an interpretation recently made by the Department of Labor, is marriage. If the quota of a country is filled, and one of its citizens wants to enter the United States before the next year's selection is admitted to our shores all he or she has to do is marry an American citizen. Then, provided all the simple moral and educational requirements are met, the welcome sign is hung out at Ellis Island.

It all goes back to the Cable Independent citizenship act. Cable, a progressive congressman from Lima, Ohio, obtained the passage of a law giving American women independent citizenship. That is, an American woman is no longer forced to adopt her husband's national allegiance if she marries a foreigner. She remains an American unless she voluntarily resigns that privilege.

By the same token, foreign-born women no longer obtain American citizenship merely by marrying "I do" before the altar and a voter in one of the several states of our Union. She has to go through naturalization processes. This caused great confusion among Americans with foreign wives. Men found that their wives, coming from countries which had had their quota of immigrants to this country, were being excluded. Even United States consuls and members of the diplomatic corps were put into this awkward situation.

Consequently, the new immigration law included a provision permitting the admission of foreign women seeking to join American husbands in the United States.

Recently the question of an American woman bringing a husband from a land whose quota has been exhausted came before the Labor department.

"What's more for the good is since for the moment," immigration officials ruled gravely, "if an American girl wants to bring in a foreign husband, she can do it."

More Eating, Drinking and Smoking in Italy

Rome. Italy eats more, drinks more and smokes three or four times as much as before the war.

In the old days, each Italian disposed of an average of 20 pounds of fresh meat a year and 15 of preserved meat; now the consumption is 40 and 40 respectively. The use of sugar has risen from 11 to 12 pounds a year per capita, while the consumption of coffee has nearly doubled. Where the average Italian drank 20 litres of wine a year, he now consumes 340.

There has been a heavy increase in the consumption of tobacco, as the average Italian used to spend 9 lire every year on his smokes and now he spends 40.

During the greater increase of all these habits of transport. Before the war the bicycles in Italy numbered 1,000,000; now the country contains 2,000,000. There are 2,000,000 automobiles now in Italy and now they number 34,000; public automobiles, which were 1,000 in 1914, there were only 1,000 in 1914; there were only 1,000 in 1914; there were only 1,000 in 1914.

VERY DESIRABLE PROPERTY

Arden M. Jones of Franklin Motor Sales Purchased Property Occupied as Sales and Service Station.

Arden M. Jones of the Franklin Motor Sales announced yesterday the purchase of the property at 46 Main street, which is at present occupied by him as a sales and service station. While the consideration is not made known, still the property is a very desirable one and upon the acquisition of which Mr. Jones is to be congratulated.

The building, which is on a lot of 100 feet frontage, is 40 by 40 feet and of three stories with two entrance levels available. A number of desirable improvements have been made to the property by Mr. Jones since he acquired a long lease early this summer, and even more of a minor nature are in contemplation.

The move is one of confidence on the part of Mr. Jones, confidence in Oneonta and in the Franklin with which company he has been connected since 1908.

Mr. Jones has been engaged in business in Oneonta for but a comparatively short time, but he feels confident of its future, and of its many advantages in the center of a large rural section.

He is as well confident of the success of the Franklin in that field as demonstrated in his short connection here. He entered the employ of the Franklin company in 1908 and served first as service manager, in some of the larger cities, but since 1912 has held the agency at Norwich, embracing Otsego, Delaware and Chenango counties, with other surrounding territories.

He believes that the service largely measures the satisfaction of car owners and the Franklin service in Oneonta, under the capable direction of Leslie Bennett, he feels certain will be of the highest calibre.

The many Oneonta friends of Mr. Jones will wish him every success in his larger participation in the business life of the city.
